

Sidiq Aji Pamungkas. 2018. Feminism and Social Value on Short Stories of National Newspapers in Indonesia. Thesis. Consultant: Prof. Dr. Sarwiji Suwandi, M.Pd. Co-consultant: Dr. Muhammad Rohmadi, M.Hum. Master of Indonesian Language and Literature Education Study Program, Teacher Training and Education Faculty, Sebelas Maret University Surakarta.

ABSTRACT

The aims of this study were: 1) Explain and describe forms of gender injustice on short stories published in the Indonesian national newspaper; 2) Explain and describe emancipate on short stories published in the Indonesian national newspaper; 3) Explain and describe the social values contained on short stories published in the Indonesian national newspaper; 4) Explain and describe the value of feminism and social value on short stories published in Indonesian national newspapers with the learning of literary theory.

This research is a qualitative research with qualitative descriptive. Research strategies using content analysis. Content analysis in this study was used to identify feminism and social values. The data source in this study is short stories document from the Indonesian national newspaper. The method used library techniques and interview techniques. The validity of the data used uses theoretical triangulation and source triangulation. The data analysis technique in this study is inductive using phenomenological procedures.

The result of this study were: 1) there are four elements of gender inequality, namely violence, subordination, and stereotypes; 2) there are four elements of emancipate, namely rigidity, freedom, autonomy, and a fight; 3) social value contained on short stories is the loving, responsibility, harmonies live; 4) short stories on newspapers can be used as discussion material in teaching literature because short stories in newspapers have language, character psychology, and cultural figures that have been filtered according to teenage readers up to old age.

Keywords: feminism, social values, gender inequity, relevance, short stories